11th INTERNATIONAL WEEK

AT THE FACULTY OF EDUCATION, PALACKÝ UNIVERSITY, OLOMOUC

First Call

Dear partners, dear colleagues, dear friends,

Another year has passed, and we are pleased to begin preparations for the next edition of our traditional International Week. This year, the event will be held from 29 September to 2 October (Tuesday to Friday!). We sincerely hope you will consider joining us — you are warmly invited to take part.

As always, our intent is to prepare a diverse and engaging programme. Participants will have the chance to discover the city of Olomouc, learn more about Palacký University and its Faculty of Education, connect with international colleagues, exchange experiences and expertise, gain new insights into education and teacher training, and enjoy many other enriching opportunities. These experiences will be offered through a combination of official and social activities.

The event is intended for academic staff participating through Erasmus teaching mobility as well as administrative staff involved in international cooperation attending under Erasmus training mobility. Participation is open to everyone, including institutions that are not yet our official partners; however, preference will be given to colleagues joining via the Erasmus+ programme. Staff members coming under the Erasmus teaching mobility are kindly asked to prepare a lecture, seminar, or workshop for our students.

No participation fee will be charged. Refreshments, three lunches (Tuesday to Thursday), and a full-day excursion (Thursday) will be provided for all attendees. Expenses such as accommodation and travel arrangements must be covered by participants themselves, although Erasmus+ funding may be used for this purpose. Due to limited capacity, we can accommodate a maximum of two representatives from each university.

Participants will also have the opportunity to introduce and promote their institutions to our students during the International Fair, which is expected to take place on Tuesday afternoon. We encourage you to bring brochures, promotional materials, or other information about your institution.

We look forward to your visit.

With best wishes,

Jana Kvintová
Vice-Dean for International Relations
